Technisource Launches All-New Corporate Web Site

Innovative Tool Offers Greater Functionality and Ease-of-Use

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - (January 8, 2007) - Technisource, a national information technology and engineering services provider, is introducing one of the technology service industry's most innovative and powerful Web sites—www.technisource.com. The site's most distinctive feature is a proprietary job search function that provides more detailed information than industry competitors.

Unique features include:

- Fluid, "user-centric" interface
- Advanced job search with refined results
- Single-click local market information access
- "User-friendly" online job application
- At-a-Glance job ticker

"Technisource.com goes well-beyond what most expect from the Web sites of technology services companies," said Stephen R. Bova, chairman and CEO of Technisource. "It provides an intuitive, highly-interactive experience that educates the audience about our company, in addition to the many exciting job opportunities we offer."

Current and future clients can research Technisource's complete service offerings with just a few clicks. Job candidates will enjoy industry-leading search capabilities that will generate a wide range of employment opportunities throughout the nation. The job database holds hundreds of active listings ranging from help desk technician to CIO.

Technisource.com is the latest innovation from Technisource. The company is uniquely positioned in the marketplace to offer large clients the service levels and expertise they expect and mid-size/small clients the services they need to grow and be competitive. Technisource is seeking to elevate the role of the technology service provider as a more strategic contributor to the success of client organizations.
